VENUE

School of Humanities Conference room
ANU College of Arts & Social Sciences
Bldg 14, A.D. Hope Building
The Australian National University

The 2009 conference aims to:

- Explore the implementation of the National Framework for Philosophy Education in Australian Schools;
- Share good practice in philosophy education in Australian schools;
- Explore linkages between quality teaching philosophy, student wellbeing, positive education and other relevant learning areas; and
- Assess the growth that has taken place in philosophy education and its longer term impacts for schools communities

The conference will bring together national and international speakers, stakeholders, curriculum leaders, teachers, principals and students. Keynote addresses, presentations and workshops will celebrate philosophy education and provide the impetus for discussions about leading and sustaining philosophy education in Australian schools.

The cost of this conference is $400 ($350 early bird)

Participants are responsible for their own travel and accommodation.

The (optional) conference dinner will be on the evening of Thursday 1 October at the Vivaldi's. The cost of the 3 course meal plus table wine is $60.
